In this multicultural travelogue through each of the 24 time zones, young readers are invited to travel the world and experience all the people, places, and things that exist on our planet now. In every minute of every hour of every day, something wonderful is happening around the world. In Santa Fe, New Mexico, an artist sits behind his easel working on a painting. At the same time in Greenland, an Inuit boy begins training his first pack of sled dogs. While in Madagascar, a playful lemur is trying to steal treats from a family's picnic, just as a baby humpback whale is born deep in the Pacific Ocean. A perfect read-aloud to help introduce geography and time-telling as well as a celebration of the richness and diversity of life on our planet. Master pop-up artist Chuck Fischer's most glorious creation yet -- CHRISTMAS AROUND THE WORLD is the perfect holiday gift. Featuring France, Germany, Russia, Latin America, Scandinavia, Great Britain, Italy, and the United States, every spread is packed with delights: a luxurious central pop-up image, plus removable booklets, pullouts, mini pop-ups, and more. The text illuminates unique Christmas traditions, gift legacies, and portraits of famous figures, such as England's Father Christmas and Italy's Le Befana. Like Christmas in New York, CHRISTMAS AROUND THE WORLD is destined to become a treasured keepsake and a perennial bestseller for years to come. A lively illustrated introduction to the countries of the world, the seven continents, this bright, playful atlas gives inquisitive readers just enough information to whet the appetite for exploration. Sprinkled with imagery that picks out a country's essence —like the giant squid and penguins of Antarctica, and a dragonfly-shaped kite at Vietnam's International Kite Festival—and trivia that informs, this atlas makes a great gift.

curious kids. Jules Verne's classic, a bestseller for over a century, has never appeared in a critical edition before. William Butcher's stylish new translation moves as fast and as brilliantly as Fogg's own journey. - Having assured the members of London's exclusive Reform Club that he will circumnavigate the world in 80 days, Fogg - stiff, repressed, English - starts by teaming up with an irrepressible Frenchman, Passepartout, and then with a ravishing Indian princess, Aouda. Together they slice through jungles, over snowbound passes, even across an isthmus - only to get back five minutes late. Fogg faces despair and suicide, but Aouda saves the new man of him, able to face even the Reform Club again. Around the World in Eighty Days (1872) contains a strong dose of post-Romantic reality plus extensive borrowing from the author's own Journey to England and Scotland - but not a shred of science fiction. Its modernism lies instead in the experimental literary technique, with parallel plots, a narrative constantly made to look foolish, four characters in search of their own unconscious, and a unique twisting of space and time. Verne's classic, a bestseller for over a century, has never appeared in a critical edition before. William Butcher's stylish new translation moves as fast and as brilliantly as Fogg's own journey. - Mike and Barbara Bivona have danced their way around the world, embracing the colorful rhythms of each country and culture in their memoir. Now, Mike, the author of Dancing Around the World with Mike and Barbara Bivona, returns to share more of their globe-trotting adventures in part one of a new travel memoir series. While cruising the islands, they witnessed lava flowing into the surf off the shores of Hawaii. They danced on a nightclub floor that once saw the white-uniformed officers of the warship USS Arizona anchored at the naval station in Pearl Harbor. Mike describes the thrill and challenge of learning the intricate steps of the Argentine tango in Buenos Aires and, more importantly, absorbing its proper attitude from master dancers. The brimstone fumes wreathing the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius transported them back in time, as the frozen bodies of the unlucky residents of Pompeii and Herculaneum as well as the evidence of Roman lively erotic imagination leapt from the walls and sculptured into clay-inspired numerous colorful conversations. Mike and Barbara's shared passion for art and history has led them to seek out the haunts of other lovers of adventure: Columbus, Ponce de Leon, General Custer, circus impresario John Ringling, and elderly jazz musicians in New Orleans. Part memoir and part travelogue, this volume offers a trip around the world with the Bivonas without ever leaving your chair. Traveling Around the World with Mike and Barbara Bivona by Michael Bivona CPA, published by Universe, was a winner in the Annual Eric Hoffer Awards for Short Prose and Independent Books 2014. eBook nonfiction The US Review of Books reviewed by Barbara Bamberger Scott. What is the proper English etiquette for a tea room emission? Can a Swiss fart be so loud that it echoes? If a meditating Buddhist passes gas, does it exist? The answers to such pressing questions are answered in this hilarious soon-to-be international best seller. Ingeniously packaged with a sound unit to convey the nuances of global flatulence, Farts Around the World is the ideal gift for those who like to travel with a smile. Ten-year-old Sadie Meadows is in bed on New Year's Eve when she notices an unopened present beneath her window. When she opens it, it contains a book called The World from Your Bedroom - There and Back Again, but when she opens it up and begins to read, she is disappointed to see it is nothing more than a travel guide packed with pages detailing hundreds of places across the world. She reads the first page puts the book down just as sleep claims her at the instant that the New Year arrives. to find that, instead of being in her bedroom at home in Skipton, somehow she has been transported to Ireland, the location that she had just read about in the book. There follows a series of adventures, each set in a different location, as Sadie finds herself travelling a globe as she attempts to get back home again. This month sees her journeying across the Far East into the Indian subcontinent and the Middle East. "Every child in the world has a birthday. But how children celebrate this occasion depends on where they live. In this addition to the Around the World series, award-winning author Margriet Ruurs explores fascinating ways that children experience birthdays. You'll meet fourteen kids from different countries, each celebrating a birthday according to their local traditions. Bram from Belgium never gets to sleep in on his birthday - his family wakes him up by clanging pots and pans. Ninoshka in India, it's important to give thanks to the Hindu gods and share sweets with classmates. And some kids don't celebrate their birthdays at all. Instead, Phúc Khang in Vietnam celebrates Tet, when everyone in the country turns one year older. A world map pinpoints the countries in the book, a Note to Parents and Teachers with interactive activities, and a glossary of foreign words and phrases help to enrich the reading experience. Based on interviews with real people from each country, Birthdays Around the World is an invitation to experience a different culture, think about your own birthday celebrations and even learn to say "Happy Birthday" in another language (like Hawaiian: "Hau oli la hanau" [ho-O-lee LA HA-now])!"-- 'Restlessly curious, insightful, and quirky, David Damrosch is the perfect guide to a round-the-world adventure in reading' Stephen Greenblatt A transporting and illuminating voyage around the globe, told through eighty classic and modern books 'It is always a pleasure to talk about books with David Damrosch, who has read all of them, and he is so eloquent in his understanding about them all' Orhan Pamuk Inspired by Jules Verne's hero Phileas Fogg, David Damrosch, chair of Harvard's Department of Comparative Literature and founder of Harvard's Institute for World Literature, set out to counter a pandemic's restrictions on travel by exploring eighty exceptional books from around the globe. Following a literary itinerary from London to Venice, Tehran and points beyond, and via authors from Woolf and Dan Brown to Nobel prizewinners Orhan Pamuk, Wole Soyinka, Mo Yan and Olga Tokarczuk, he explores how these works have shaped our idea of the world, and the ways the world bleeds into literature. To chart the expansive landscape of world literature today, Damrosch explores how writers have bridged two very different worlds: the world of their personal experience, and the world of books. These have enabled great writers to give shape and meaning to their lives. In his literary cartography, Damrosch includes compelling contemporary works as well as perennial classics, hard-boiled crime fiction as well as haunting works of fantasy, and the formative tales that introduced children to the world we're entering. Taken together, these eighty titles offer us fresh perspectives on perennial problems, from the social consequences of epidemics to the rising inequality of our age. Thomas More designed Utopia to combat the patriarchal structures within and against which many of these books' heroines have to struggle, from the work of Murasaki Shikibu a millennium ago to that of Margaret Atwood today. Around the World in 80 Books is a warm invitation to look beyond ourselves and our surroundings, and to see our world and its people in new ways. The lives of the Saints are one of the most powerful ways God draws people himself, showing us the love and the joy we can find in him. But so often, these Saints are distant—impossibly holy or dull or unlike us in race and age and state in life. In Saints Around the World, you'll meet over one-hundred Saints from more than sixty countries, including those with different disabilities, strengths, and struggles. The beautiful illustrations and captivating storytelling will introduce you and your children to new heavenly friends while also helping you fall more in love with Jesus. Each story in this book is written not only to capture the imagination but also to speak about God's tremendous love and our call to be saints. These stories in Saints Around the World for when you feel like life isn't fair, when people are unkind to you, when you've made a terrible mistake, when you're struggling at school, when prayer is hard. And there are stories of shouting down Nazis, of fleeing a murderous village, of making scientific discoveries, of smoking a cigar while enemy soldiers amputate your leg. There are scared Saints, brilliant Saints, weak Saints, adventurous Saints, abused Saints, overworked Saints, disabled Saints—and the point of every one of them is the love of God. Whether you're checking the map to find Saints who look like you or perusing the extensive indices to find Saints with your skills or struggles, you'll find countless stories in this book that remind you that the possible holiness is. The World Health Organization estimating that nearly four percent of global deaths are due alcohol, alcohol misuse can be an extremely damaging social problem, and one that governments around the world have endeavored to address through a range of policy. Regulating Alcohol around the World explores historical and contemporary case studies from multiple countries to gain a richer understanding of the political, economic, and other factors that influence alcohol-related policymaking. The case studies presented in the book involve a range of different kinds of alcohol policies, including prohibition strategies, general efforts to reduce alcohol's social harms, and more targeted policies. The explanatory value of leading theories from political science, policy studies, anthropology, and other fields is assessed with particular reference to the influence of cultural and historical factors on approaches to alcohol regulation. The book adopts a global perspective and offers guidance for students, researchers, practitioners, policymakers, and other stakeholders about the lessons that can be learned from previous efforts to change alcohol policies. As such, it will be of interest to practitioners in the fields of health and alcohol abuse prevention, as well as scholars and students of sociology, criminology, and the sociology of health, addiction, and social problems. This colorful cross-section of families introduces readers to fourteen real children from around the world: a young girl who loves the people they love the most, from Sanne in the Netherlands, who has two moms; to Gilad, whose parents and siblings live on a kibbutz with other families in Israel; to Ji Eun in South Korea, whose parents both work outside the home. An engaging book about different cultures and how they share: the importance of family, and the familiar ways people care for one another. It has the power to change the lives of young people. It is a force in shaping identity, affirming culture and exploring heritage in an increasingly borderless world. This volume offers chapters and narratives on: Curriculum developments worldwide Empowering communities through dance Embodiment and creativity in dance teaching Exploring and assessing learning in dance as artistic practice Imagined futures for dance education Reflection, evaluation, analysis and documentation are key to the evolving field of dance education and research involving individuals, communities and nations. Dance Education around the World: Perspectives on Dance, Young People and Change provides a great resource for dance educators, practitioners and researchers, and pushes for the furtherance of dance education around the world. Charlotte Svendler Nielsen is Assistant professor and head of educational studies at the Department of Nutrition, Exercise and Sports, research group Learning and Identity, University of Copenhagen, Denmark. Stephanie Burridge lectures at Lasalle College of the Arts and Singapore Management University, and is the series editor of Routledge Celebrating Dance in Asia and the Pacific. This classic, once hard-to-find travelogue recalls one of the very first around-the-world bicycle treks. Filled with rarely matched endurance and determination, Around the World on a Bicycle tells of a young cyclist's changing and maturing worldview as he ventures through forty countries on the eve of World War II. It is an exuberant, youthful account, harking back to a time when the exploits of Charles Lindbergh, Byrd, Amelia Earhart, and other adventurers stirred the popular imagination. In 1935 Frank Birmore left the small American town of Athens, Georgia, to continue his college studies in Europe. In his spare time, Birmore toured the continent on a one-speed bike he called Bucephalus (after the name of Alexander the Great's horse). A born wanderer, Birmore broadened his travels to include the British Isles and even the Mediterranean. After a long and unplanned detour in Egypt, Birmore put his studies on hold, pointed Bucephalus eastward, and just kept going. From desert valleys to frozen peaks, from palace promenades to mountain jungle trails, Birmore saw it all on his eighteen-month, twenty-five-thousand-mile odyssey. Some of the people he encountered had never seen a bike--or, for that matter, an Anglo-American European. As a good travel experience should, Birmore's trip changed his outlook on the world and its strangers. Always daring, outgoing, and energetic, he now saw an innate goodness in people. Between bone-breaking spills, wild animal attacks, and privation of all kinds, Birmore learned that he had little to fear from human encounters. That he traveled through a world on the cusp of global war makes this lesson even more remarkable--and timeless. Explores the world's great rivers, discussing how they were formed, what organisms live there, and how they are used by people. Send kids globe-trotting with this internationally themed seek-and-find title. Hundreds of fun objects are hidden inside full-color photo puzzles of our world's flags, foods, landmarks, animals, customs, and more. Each to-find list includes pictographs and word labels to challenge pre-readers and early readers alike. Grades 3-6 * Unison * The first trip was so much fun that we've asked Greg Gilpin to take us on another singing and dancing adventure around the world. This time, we visit five countries and four cultural regions. All pages are reproducible and suitable for a unit. Each unit includes a page of fun and interesting facts about the country/region, its people, and traditions, as well as a related activity that teaches a music concept. The included CD features a performance and accompaniment versions of the song to help facilitate both dancing and singing in your classroom. (Book 1-30/2080H) What's In Store For You? The book deals with unusual contributions, inventions and customs that came to us from many different cultures and peoples throughout the ages. For example, what is the story behind giving someone the "thumbs up" or "finger flip," or where did the custom of wearing a cap and gown for graduation come from? Additionally, why did we adopt the seven-day week as well as the sixty second and sixty minutes in an hour? Or what is the story behind the "red carpet" treatment that celebrities or important officials come to visit? In this book you will learn about the origins of these practices from the ancient Sumerians all the way to the present. They are not what you think!!! “Jealous. That’s what I am. Green with golf envy...Why didn’t we think of that? I mean, what golfer worth his balls wouldn’t want to trade all the troubles of life for the adventure and privilege of traveling up everywhere from the glacial volcanoes of the Andes to the Arctic Circle in Norway?”

the foreword by Turk Pipkin At 47, David Wood sold everything he owned and set out to fulfill every golfer’s dream: For one year, he traveled the world (covering 60,000 miles and every continent except Antarctica) by plane, boat, train, motorcycle and rickshaw, to play the golf he loves in the most exotic locales, including the world’s highest, driest, hottest, coldest, and most remote golf courses, and lived to tell the tale. Along the way, he met a bevy of fascinating characters, including surly cabbies, taxi drivers with a death wish, welcoming golf course managers, threatening kangaroos, and golf pros out for a quick game. David faced dire situations, such as bouts of food poisoning in India and Egypt, altitude sickness in Argentina, getting booted out of the Ukraine by armed guards, and muddling through with limited golf skills, but through it all he maintained a sense of humor and of course his passion for golf, which he played every chance he got.

The first edited volume of work by the legendary undercover journalist Born Elizabeth Jane Cochran, Nellie Bly was one of the first and best female journalists in America and quickly became a national phenomenon in the late 1800s with a board game based on her adventures and merchandise inspired by the clothes she wore. Bly gained fame for being the first “girl stunt reporter,” writing stories that no one at the time thought a woman could or should write, including an exposé of patient treatment at an asylum and a travelogue from her record-breaking race around the world without a change of clothes. This volume, the only printed and edited collection of Bly’s writings, includes her best known works—Ten Days in a Mad-House, Six Months in Mexico, and Around the World in Seventy Days—as well as many lesser known pieces that capture the breadth of her career from opinion pieces to her remarkable World War I reporting. As 2014 marks the 150th anniversary of Bly’s birth, this collection celebrates her work, spirit, and vital place in history.

For more than seventy years, Penguin has been the leading publisher of classic literature in the English-speaking world.
