Excerpt: The Archdiocese of Armagh (Latin: Irish:) is a Roman Catholic archdiocese in the northern part of Ireland. According to tradition, the "Diocese of Armagh" was established by St. Patrick about 445 . It enjoyed a preeminence in Ireland as the most senior primatial see. It was formally recognised as a metropolitan province in 1152 by the Synod of Kells. The current Archbishop of Armagh and Primate of All Ireland is Cardinal Sean Brady. The Province of Armagh, is one of the four ecclesiastical provinces that together form the Roman Catholic Church in Ireland; the other provinces are Dublin, Tuam and Cashel. Its metropolitan bishop is the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Armagh. The geographical remit of the province straddles both political jurisdictions in the island of...

The Pastoral Role of the Roman Catholic Church in Pre-famine Ireland, 1750-1850 Jun 21 2020 In this new volume, noted Irish historian Emmet Larkin turns his attention to the pastoral challenges the Roman Catholic Church faced in ministering to an exploding population of Irish Catholics in the years before the Great Famine of 1847. The extraordinary increase in the population of Ireland from the mid-eighteenth to the mid-nineteenth century combined with a lack of financial resources available to the church as well as a shortage of clergy and sacred space proved to be crucial for adopting new methods of ministering to the Irish Catholic community. How the Irish Church attempted to respond to these various challenges, and how it was thus uniquely shaped by them, is the central theme of this study.

Clergy of Dublin and Glendalough Nov 14 2019 The Dioceses of Dublin and Glendalough have been united since 1216 and, unusually, contained two diocesan cathedrals: Christchurch and St Patrick's (until the disestablishment of the Church of Ireland in 1870). This volume lists the cathedral and parish clergy of the United Dioceses from the Middle Ages to the present, with biographies where possible. This volume is based on the work of Canon James Blennerhassett Leslie, rector of Kilsaran, Co. Louth from 1899-1951 and Chancellor of the Diocese of Armagh from 1934-1943. He published succession lists for several dioceses and left other lists in manuscript in the Library of the Representative Church Body. Three of those manuscripts form the foundation of this volume: Clergy of Dublin, Clergy of Glendalough and Fasti of Christ Church Cathedral. These are supplemented with lists for St Patrick's Cathedral from H J Lawlor's Fasti of that Cathedral, published in 1930. The lists have been brought up-to-date to 2001. Over 4,000 names of clergy have been recorded, and brief historical notes on the parishes and churches in the dioceses are included. The present work is the fourth in the series of modern revisions of Canon Leslie's work to be published and is part of the United Diocese' celebration of the Millennium. The work of revising and updating it for publication was carried out by W.J.R Wallace who retired as Senior History master in The High School, Dublin in 1996.

Priests and Prelates of Armagh in the Age of Reformations, 1518-1558 Sep 17 2022 This book presents a thematic study of the diocesan clergy in Armagh on the eve of the Tudor reformations and traces the impact of the Tudors' religious programmes on the diocesan clergy in Armagh up to the close of 1558.

And Parishes Nov 19 2022 Excerpt from And Parishes: Being an Account of the Clergy of the Church of Ireland in the Diocese of Armagh, From the Earliest Period, With Historical Notices of the Several Parishes, Churches, &C Few persons can form an adequate conception of the immense labour and research involved in the work. The names in the Index, though of Clergy alone, number over The Diocese of Armagh is rich in manuscript material for such research, as can be seen from the List of Authorities used. The connection of Bishop Reeves With the Diocese was to it a veritable endowment for, although he published little concerning it, he left behind him many manuscripts, in his beautifully concise writing, full of information for a Diocesan historian. If he were alive to-day, no one would be more delighted, I believe, at the issue of such a book than Bishop Reeves, at whose hands I received Deacon's Orders.
