Losing a pet is heartbreaking for all the family, but can be particularly difficult for a child. This book will help any child who is grieving for a family pet who has died. The book allows them to fill in all the information they like about their pet, and has plenty of room for pictures- either drawn or to stick in photographs. The book will help the child recall happy memories about their time with their pet. Parents can help the child fill the book in if needed. Children can fill in as much or as little of the book as they like, and at their own pace. Sections of the book include: Me and My Pet My Pet's Favourite Things To Do My Favourite Things To Do With My Pet My Pet's Favourite Food and Treats The Silliest Things My Pet Did The Naughtiest Things My Pet Did Why My Pet Wouldn't Want Me To Be Sad Using the book will help the child as they grieve for their lost pet by helping them recall happy memories which they can record. The final section, Why My Pet Wouldn't Want Me To Be Sad will prompt the child to think about why they don't have to stay sad forever. Children will be able to look at the book whenever they like in the future which makes it a lovely keepsake, and also reassures the child that the pet will never be forgotten. Makes a thoughtful gift for any child who has lost a pet. The book is 7" x 9" in size, so large enough for a child to have plenty of room to write, but small enough to be stored or carried easily. The book has 22 prompted pages, giving plenty of scope for the child to write what they would like, but not so big that it overwhelms them. Each prompted page has a blank page behind- meaning no worrying about bleed through if they draw a picture, or giving extra room for writing or pictures. Please use the Look Inside function to ensure you are happy with the format and style of the book. About The Author This book was created to help the Author's children when one of the family pets sadly died. The children were worried that they would forget their pet. The book meant that they could record their memories of the pet so that he wouldn't be forgotten, and helped the children remember their happiest memories of him. The Author also works in Education and writes children's story books. This Letters to my Son Journal has 120 (6in x 9in) lined pages. "I'm scared I'll forget you]]' From the perspective of a young child, Joanna Rowland artfully describes what it is like to remember and grieve a loved one who has died. The child in the story creates a memory box to keep mementos and written memories of the loved one, to help in the grieving process. Heartfelt and comforting, The Memory Box will help children and adults talk about this very difficult topic together. The unique point of view allows the reader to imagine the loss of any they have loved - a friend, family member, or even a pet. A parent guide in the back includes information on helping children manage the complex and difficult emotions they feel when they lose someone they love, as well as suggestions on how to create their own memory box. The idea of one's memory "filling up" is a humorous misconception of how memory in general is thought to work; it actually has no capacity limit. However, the idea of a "full brain" makes more sense with reference to working memory, which is the limited amount of information a person can hold temporarily in an especially accessible form for use in the completion of almost any challenging cognitive task. This groundbreaking book explains the evidence supporting Cowan's theoretical proposal about working memory capacity, and compares it to competing perspectives. Cognitive psychologists profoundly disagree on how working memory is limited: whether by the number of units that can be retained (and, if so, what kind of units and how many), the types of interfering material, the time that has elapsed, some combination of these mechanisms, or none of them. The book assesses these hypotheses and examines explanations of why capacity limits occur, including vivid biological, cognitive, and evolutionary accounts. The book concludes with a discussion of the practical importance of capacity limits in daily life. This 10th anniversary Classic Edition will continue to be accessible to a wide range of readers and serve as an invaluable reference for all memory researchers. Hello, my name is Tanya This is a memory book for girls about the first year of your child. Easy, funny, with a beautiful "baby" design and beautiful bright pictures. All parents will like it. You will find all the important information that you can fill out about the development of your baby. These are data on the birth of your daughter, height, weight, first teeth. Important moments in your child's life. When he started to hold his head, make the first sounds when and which began to pronounce the first words, the first vocabulary. When he went, how he slept, how he walked, how he played, what the first dishes were, what first friends and first toys were. In the place with the pages for entries, there are pages for the first photos of your child, your family, her first smile, the children's room, the first stroller, the first clothes, the first dishes, the first toys ... Despite the fact that the book provides comprehensive information about the first year of your child, filling it will be easy, and it does not take much of your precious time. The book is available and understandable in use. After completing it, in the future, it will be a beautiful bright memory album with beautiful photos of your baby and his family, and important information about the first year of her life. I hope you enjoy this book! I would be grateful for your feedback Thank you This is a journal about a son and his mother. It may be the most precious gift a mother will ever give her son. This journal will help the son understand his mother, and show why he became the person he is today. Losing someone you love dearly like a son can be a difficult situation to deal with mentally and emotionally. This guided prompts workbook journal hopes to provide a way to express those thoughts on paper and create a memory book to cherish the memories, as well as, help with the healing process Up to 40 prompt questions to help recall and reflect on sentimental memories about your son Lined paper to write down your thoughts, as well as, stick photos on it too Additional lined paper for more content A front page to personalize with a message or journal's owner name 6" x 9" / Half size Glossy softcover Few people get through childhood without experiencing the loss of a precious pet. Memories of You is an interactive memory book that honors the special role a pet plays in a child's life, from playmate to best friend to treasured source of comfort during hard times. Writing, drawing, storytelling, and other engaging exercises support children in commemorating the bond they shared with their pet from the day it entered their life. Children, as well as the adults who support them, will acquire a wealth of tools to process the loss of a pet with wisdom, compassion, and sweet memories to last a lifetime.
